

The answer to this question of course depends entirely on the family and the child or youth. Some children or youth may feel comfortable in any environment, while others may be shy and uncomfortable in new situations. We encourage our Scouts to feel welcome in all of our activities, which are designed to bring out the best in each individual.