

We offer our Scouts the opportunity to ask questions of successful people, such as role models, high-profile persons, public servants, athletes, educators, scientists, business people, members of the military, firefighters, law enforcement, and more.

The way it works is that we send a list of questions approved by our Scouts for the person to answer. If our Scouts have any additional questions to suggest, they can submit them to us. The successful people selected answer the questions and return them to us, and we then post the answers online so all our Scouts can view them.

The purpose of this activity is to give our Scouts the opportunity to see the perspective of the successful people they admire, and also to see how character and other Scout attributes have played a part in their lives.